When you consider that there is hardly a country school yard that is not properly fenced, don't you think that it is about time some steps were taken to fence and fix up the splendid grounds belonging to the Cayley school?
There is nothing that would improve the looks of our town more than to have this property laid out with trees and shrubbery and nicely fenced. It is a poor parent that is not interested in the welfare of his child; and there is hardly a man in the district that would not be glad to help the school board make these grounds the nicest in the community. Let us start now this fall, and start right, by having the land broken and worked up on the four sides of the property, so that trees can be planted next spring.

Dept. Will Protect Homesteaders

The department of the interior has issued instructions to the agents of Dominion lands to extend the time for homesteaders to go on their land until April 1 next.
The telegram from W. W. Cory, deputy minister of the interior, explains itself, and is as follows:
"Ottawa, Aug. 5.—It has been arranged that owing to the demand for railway labor, protection will be granted to homestead and pre-emption entrants until April first next, on application to land agent, and on his being satisfied that entry has been perfected.
Signed, W. W. Cory."

Poultry in Alberta

It is safe to say that one of the future industries of Alberta will be the establishment of huge chicken ranches and the raising of poultry on a large scale to supply the rapidly growing towns and cities of the Dominion, and more particularly the western provinces.

An example of what may be done in this line is the farm of Messrs. E. C. Dobell and W. W.
Howe, which has just recently been established about two miles southeast of Edmonton. The farm consists of 86 acres of the finest soil and is already stocked with about 800 chickens of various breeds.

Mr. Howe has had unlimited experience in the raising of poultry, having engaged in it as a hobby in the old country. This is the first time, however, that he has commercialized it, and he states that he is very optimistic for the future, as he believes that conditions for poultry raising in this district are ideal. This poultry ranch is but in its infancy yet, although it requires the attention of several men to manage it. In a very short time the feathery population of the ranch will be greatly increased, and will be a splendid example of what the north country can do along the line of chicken raising.—Alberta Homesteader.

After $400 Damages

Wm. J. Bowland, former High River lacrosse player, now residing in Lethbridge, has entered suit for $400 damages against the mayor of High River and the chief of police of the same town.
Bowland, in his statement of claim states that on July 25th the defendants, without lawful excuse or justification did assault him by violently attacking and seizing him when on a C.P.R. train and dragging him from the depot to the town lockup. The chief of police, he says, arrested him without any warrant, or other legal process, and at the time of the occurrence he had not committed any crime or misdemeanor.

The occurrence took place after the last lacrosse match between High River and Lethbridge, played at the former place. Bowland and another former High River player were leaving for Lethbridge with the Lethbridge team. Alleging that he was taking with him apparatus belonging to the High River club, Bowland was taken by the police to the cells and incarcerated so that he did not go down to Lethbridge on the train.

Ignoring the Home

In an investigation which was made into 44 picture shows in Indianapolis it was found that the pictures were sensational and misleading, but not vulgar; that one film portrayed crime in an offensive way. Few films were downright immoral, but a good many were questionable. Marital unfaithfulness figured in seven out of 23. Parts of the vaudeville performance were reported unfit for any stage. Educational features were practically lacking. Almost without exception the songs were silly and sentimental, and often sung suggestively.

As these shows are attended largely by children, there is an argument for supervising them more strictly than other theatres.
Immorality should of course be absolutely forbidden, and any picture which presents crime in an alluring sense should be excluded.
But it is hardly within the powers of the law to forbid a show because it is silly or lacking educational merit.

What strikes one in connection with this kind of State regulation is the apparent ignoring of the rights and duties of fathers and mothers. Children who attend these shows have, most of them, parents, whose duty it is to instruct these children as to the kind of amusements they should enjoy, the books they should read, the companions with whom they shall associate. But it seems to be assured that this duty is neglected, and children are now left to the guardianship of the school teacher and the policeman.

This is a somewhat serious matter. If the parents are really neglecting the obvious duties of parentage, the State has a reason for slipping in, but at best the State can never completely take the place of the parent. Complaints are sometimes made of the conduct of children, and the schools are blamed. But surely the school of conduct is the home, and the parent who is not competent to teach conduct is not fit to marry, or to have charge of children.—Toronto Star.

No Occupation

She rose before daylight made crimson the east.

For duties that never diminished;

And evening the sun, when he sank in the west,

Looked down upon work that was finished.

She cooked an unending procession of meals,

Preserving and canning and baking;

She swept, she dusted, she washed and she scrubbed,

With never a rest from it taking.

A family of children she brought in the world,

And raised them, and trained them, and taught them,

She made all the clothes, and patched, mended and darned,

Till miracles seemed to have wrought them.

She watched by the bedside of sickness and pain.

Her hand cooled the raging of fever;

She carpentered, painted, upholstered, and scraped,

And worked just as hard as a beaver.

And yet as a lady of leisure, it seems.

The government looks on her station,

For now by the rules of the census report,

It enters her "No occupation."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is very optimistic regarding the West. He predicts a population of 30,000,000 for Western Canada.

By a unanimous vote the citizens of Carmangay last week passed a resolution to apply to the government for incorporation as a town.

It is to be hoped that the Cayley cemetery will soon be surveyed and fenced, and also that the bodies that have been buried at different points outside the cemetery will be lifted and buried there.

The dry weather continues, although the air has been much cooler in this district lately. The oats and potatoes are as near a failure as they could be, but the fall wheat that is being harvested is giving everyone a pleasant surprise. The crop on many farms is good. It is certainly wonderful how it has grown.

Geo. B. Hall of High River, weed inspector for this division of Alberta is working out of Nanton this week. Mr. Hall says weeds will mature regardless of dry weather, but this is a splendid year to get rid of them, as they are much easier killed than they would be in a wet season. Mr. Hall says this is the driest year he has seen during his thirty-six years residence in Alberta.

Many remark the cleanliness and brightness of Cayley, but the looks of the village could be improved a great deal if some of its people were a little more careful of their back yards and lane ways. Some people seem to think that it does not matter how they strew stuff on the empty lots and in the lanes next them. Let us all take the hint and make Cayley the cleanest, brightest, lightest little town along the line.

In order to have the new Lethbridge-Calgary road completed as early as possible and to keep their promise of running trains to Alberside this year, the Canadian Pacific have let the contract for the twenty-six mile stretch of road between Carmangay and Alberside. Foley, Welch & Stewart are the successful contractors, and already they are getting men and teams on the grounds so that within the next ten days they can begin grading. It is expected to have this part of the line finished and in operation some time in November.

Births

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm Carr, on Aug. 2nd, a son.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. Chumly, on Aug. 2nd, a son.

As a result of the dry weather and lack of feed for the coming winter, many farmers and ranchers are cutting down their herds to the lowest possible number. The movement is so great that the general market is being glutted and live stock prices are rapidly dropping. Last week cattle sold for 31 cents per pound on foot and hogs were down to 71 cents, considerably lower than they have been for some time.—Carmangay Sun.

The Same Old Song

Speaking of the Bow Valley Baseball league, the Carmangay Sun says: "When Cleverly failed to fill their league engagement here on Friday last it practically ended baseball for this year, as far as the league is concerned. Carmangay are undisputed champions for this year. Cleverly and Barons each lost four games, while Carmangay lost only one. There has been a lot of wrangling over several of the games this year, and we hope that when the time for the re-organization of the league arrives next spring that things will be run on different lines than they were this year."

Quiet Hour

Perfect Trust

Father, how oft of woe and weal,

With anxious mind I fret;

How oft a nameless dread I feel,

As if Thou couldst forget.

Yet ever do Thy hand supply

My wholesome meat and drink,

With more of pleasing good than I Could either ask or think.

And oft for this world's good I seek Like Mary, with that better part;

I trust Thee for the rest.

—J. H. Sammis.

The Joyful Life

The Christian has the secret of happiness. Under the most adverse circumstances he can be of good cheer. Gloom is no credential of grace. The trusting heart sees the bright side of every cloud. He knows that all things are working together for his good. As the artist finds beauty everywhere, so the loving soul sees the best side of everybody, recognizing the greatness of humanity even in its ruins, and realizing the immeasurable possibilities of divine grace. Love "believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Love never faileth." Those who walk in love can make melody in their hearts to the Lord, "giving thanks always."

His Presence Near

The sense of God's presence may vary according to the circumstances, moods or temperaments of different persons, or even vary with the changing moods of the same person. But it is a sense to be cultivated and developed, by putting oneself in the listening attitude and receptive condition in which it will be possible for God to make Himself known as vitally near to any particular soul. There is such a thing as "practising the presence of God." When one refrains from committing sins that tend to separate from God, and gives time and thought to the matter of being holy, God is found very near and dear.

One Day at a Time

Live one day at a time, and live it in the best possible way you can. Take no anxious thought for the morrow, while not neglecting the precautions of ordinary prudence and the laying of plans conditional on God's approval, for an effective future. The future for the believer is "bright as the promises of God"—and no prospect could be brighter than that. Keep busily occupied with some good work, "watch and pray," walk humbly with thy God, help your fellow men, and you will even now be gathering the materials out of which a happy and useful future in any world will be made.
